NEW BOOKS

AGRICULTURE IN AN UNSTABLE ECONOMY, by Theodore W. Schultz. 299 p. McGraw-Hill 1945 281.12 Sch82A.

"Attention is directed primarily to those causative factors contributing to economic distress in agriculture which have their origin outside of agriculture. The two basic causes to which the author ascribes most of the so-called 'farm problem' are an excess of workers engaged in agriculture and the instability of agricultural income..."

"In part IV, specific consideration is directed to problems in agriculture policy. Suggestions are made as to measures which should be avoided and those which should be employed in attacking the problem of underemployment (surplus of workers) in agriculture. In relation to stabilizing farm income, two major methods of attack are proposed. These are stabilization of non-agricultural employment at a high level and a system of compensatory payments to farmers when business becomes depressed and a significant degree of unemployment prevails."

"This forward-looking book is a valuable contribution to the literature on the economic problems of agriculture." From a review by P.V. Kepner, Extension Service Review for March 1946.

CONSERVATION OF THE NATION'S RESOURCES, by Harry E. Flynn and Floyd E. Perkins. 385 p. Macmillan 1941 279.12 F67.

"An understandable presentation and interpretation of facts concerning the conservation of resources of the United States. The importance of the book lies in the emphasis on the conservation of human resources and the need for a sound program for total conservation, that is, the use of natural resources for social good. Lists of conservation films and books for additional reading are included." - Booklist.

CONSTRUCTION DATA HANDBOOK FOR BITUMINOUS ENGINEERS AND CONTRACTORS. Barber-Greene company 272 p. U.B. Eng.

Partial contents.- Paving aggregates. - Bituminous materials. - Bituminous paving mixes. - Stabilized materials. - General engineering data.

DYNAMIC BIOLOGY TODAY, by Arthur O. Baker, Lewis H. Mills, Wm. L. Connor. Rand McNally 822 p. 1943 242 B17.

"A functional textbook geared to the needs and interests of the learner. Each of the twelve units relates biological facts and principles to practical situations. Some of the unit titles are: Taking part in recreation for wider living; Eating for good health; How nervous responses affect human welfare; Genetic principles in the improvement of plants and animals; Conserving natural resources."

THE EARTH AND ITS RESOURCES, by Verner C. Finch, Glenn T. Trewartha and M. H. Shearer. 634 p. McGraw-Hill 1941 331 F49E

"Basic to a discussion of the problem of conservation is a knowledge of the nature and occurrence of such resources as soils, waters, and minerals..."

"It is the purpose of this book to present the basic facts concerning the earth as the home of man...These features of our environment are discussed under the following main headings: (1) the atmosphere: weather and climate; (2) landforms: plains, plateaus, hill country and mountains; (3) the oceans and their shores; (4) earth resources: waters, vegetation, soils and minerals."

ENJOY YOUR HOUSE PLANTS, by D. H. Jenkins and H. V. Wilson. 238 p. Barrows 1944 96.06 J41.

Advice and instructions on how to keep house plants healthy and decorative. Partial contents: Pests are not necessary; The mysterious ways of the African Violet; The amaryllis is certain to please; Preview of spring with bulbs; Narcissus and the other bulbs on a water diet; The Christmas cactus for Christmas cheer; Seven colorful calla lilies; Forns require wisdom; Multiplication of house plants; Rest and vacation for house plants.

FIELD-CROP ENTERPRISES, by Kary C. Davis and others. 552 p. Lippincott 1946. 64 D29.

In this new edition new sections on soils have been added. Those are entitled: (1) Soil and other Plant Relationships; (2) Conservation and Improvement of Soils; (3) Land Drainage; (4) Terracing-Preventing Soil Erosion. The soils treatments in all sections have been revised, including suggested rotations, cover crops, green manure, culture, tillage and soil management for the special crops and regions.

FOREST SOILS AND FOREST GROWTH, by S. A. Wilde. Chronica botanica 241 p. 1946 56.3 W64F.

"This is the first book on forest soils in this country and, so far as is known to the reviewer, the first in the English language anywhere. The author has covered the subject in a thorough manner and is very successful in showing the relationship between the soil and the forest and its management.

"The broad general subjects covered include soil genesis, the genetic soil groups of the world, forest cover, physical and chemical properties of the soil, soil organisms, forest humus, soil-forest types, forest soil survey, tree planting, soil amelioration, silvicultural cuttings, productivity, and various phases of soil nursery management. Of the twenty chapters, the last five deal with nurseries..." From a review by H. A. Lunt in Journal of The American Society of Agronomy for November 1946.

FOREST TREE BREEDING AND GENETICS, by R. H. Richens. 79 p. Imperial Agricultural bureaux. Joint publication no. 8. November 1945. 10 Im73.

"The aim of this bulletin is to collate the literature on forest tree breeding that has appeared since 1930. General principles are considered first and are followed by separate accounts of the information relating to the more important forest trees investigated by breeders. It is hoped that the dual index, giving cross references both to the individual tree genera and to the various aspects of tree breeding principles will facilitate the function of the bulletin as a work of reference." - Preface.

GREENHOUSE GARDENING FOR EVERYONE, by Ernest Chabot. 266 pp. Barrows 1946
90.13 C34.

An authoritative but non-technical book on how to garden under glass. It describes the kinds of greenhouses, the best and most economical methods of heating, of ventilation and automatic watering. How to determine the location of the greenhouse. How much time is necessary for its care and upkeep. The chapter on insects and plant diseases gives a program for easy control. Chapters on soilless culture, soils and fertilizers, garden frames, potting of plants and working facilities add to the wealth of information contained in this book.

THE HANDBOOK OF GAME & FISH MANAGEMENT, by W. A. Grosh. 1 v. 1946 412.9 G86.

A looseleaf handbook containing information on federal aid, state game and fish expenditures and revenues; license and permits for all states; big-game inventory; state fish distribution, state fish & game departments and personnel, distribution maps etc.

HOW TO INTERVIEW, by W. V. Bingham and B. V. Moore. 263 p. 3d rev. ed. Harper 1941 145 B51.

"Nowhere has so much experience about the right and wrong ways to conduct personal interviews been assembled in one place," says The Personnel Review Bulletin.

In this new edition the chapter on Learning How to Interview has been expanded, and new material has been added on vocational counseling, interviewing applicants for employment, interviewing workers about employer-employee relationships. There are also new sections on public opinion polls, the social casework interview, and the interview in journalism and for legal evidence.

MANAGING YOUR MIND. You can change human nature. by S. H. Kraines and E. S. Thetford. 374 p. Macmillan 1945 140 K85.

The authors believe that "in large degree your health and your happiness are in your own hands." The management of your life depends upon your insight into the mechanism by which emotions are translated into symptoms and the desire and the determination to change. In this book the validity of those statements are demonstrated, and a detailed explanation of the technique whereby the individual can attain both health and happiness is given. "If you are willing to take over the management of your own life," the authors state, "this book is for you."

HOW TO BORROW PUBLICATIONS

Visit the library; telephone; or submit your requests for publications on Form AD-245.

If you do not have a supply of these, request them from your central supply office. For instructions on how to use Form AD-245 see the NEWSLETTER for March and April 1946.

Loan Period: Current periodicals may be kept for 3 days. Books are loaned for two weeks in Albuquerque, and for one month to the field unless there is a long waiting list. Renewals will be granted if there is no reserve on the publication desired. All material on file is for your use. You are invited to visit the Library.

PLEASE NOTE

When there are several requests for the same publication it may be some time before it can be sent to all those desiring it.

When asking for a particular publication let us know if we can substitute other books or bulletins with similar information if that one is in use. The specific publication requested will be sent later when it becomes available.

Please return publications when they are due - we do not like to send overdue notices and you do not like to receive them. Save your time and ours by returning publications on time.
